

Follow These Links from Meg Cox to More IQM Treasures

Thanks for booking this lecture! I invite you to explore and enjoy the museum website: www.internationalquiltmuseum.org Here is a link to sign up for Quilt of the Month newsletter

<https://www.internationalquiltmuseum.org/newsletter-subscription>

Here is a 10-minute video in which Ken Burns talks about his quilts: It takes you from the barn/office space where he keeps his quilts through the delivery of the quilts to the museum, and their process in designing and constructing the exhibition.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tdIRU5B3YsM>

A few years ago, the PBS show Craft in America did a full hour episode on quilts and filmed a good part of it at the IQM, so that is another cool way to go behind the scenes. The whole episode is brilliant, so I highly recommend it.

<https://www.pbssocal.org/programs/craft-in-america/quilts-episode-yhkwcj/>

I shared my obsession with the Burdick family quilt. Go here to read more about it and other tile quilts at Quiltfolk Journal:

<https://www.quiltfolk.com/journal/tile-quilts/>

The IQM invited me to give a Zoom Textile Talk on October 25, 2023 about Textiles at Burning Man, which I've attended twice. I made a Burning Man quilt, which I shared in the talk. That talk is now on YouTube:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?app=desktop&v=nar3QoM40f0>

If you have any questions, drop me a note at meg@megcox.com. You can subscribe to my free monthly email newsletter Quilt Journalist Tells All! at www.megcox.com. There is a subscription link right on the homepage with reader testimonials. You can follow me on Instagram @meg4quilts.

Reminder of discount code at the IQM virtual museum store. Use the code MEG10 at checkout. You can only use it one time.