

WIP RANKER

oops!

FAIR

Maybe your stash isn't sooooo bad, but it still gets under your skin just knowing there are quilts not finished which go nowhere with each new project you start. You can see the light at the end of the tunnel, but you are procrastinating taking that first step forward into the tunnel. Good for you for getting the UFOs under control, before it gets too out of hand.

SERIOUS

Your UFOs are starting to cause you some anxiety. Now that you have them all laid out in one place, it's more than you realized. Your UFOs may cover an entire bed or dining room table. Visually, it is overwhelming to see your UFOs at this magnitude. It's serious now. You've got to start getting this under control before it gets way out of hand.

CRITICAL

It's out of hand. Your UFO stash is beyond what you imagined. Your UFOs coupled with your current projects would not be an achievable goal in three lifetimes. Congratulate yourself for purchasing this ebook. That was the first step towards controlling the UFO population in your home. Stick with it and you will see progress by the end of this process.

MANAGING UNREALISTIC EXPECTATIONS

Self-reflection Questions

How important is it to you to finish this project?

How important is it to the person you intended it for to finish this project?

How likely is it you will ever be able to devote the time it will take to finish this project?

How likely is it you will ever learn (or master) the skill it will take to finish this project?

How likely is it you will ever want to spend the money it will take to finish this project?
